

Gabriella Petti

Associate professor

✉ gabriella.petti@unige.it

☎ +39 010 209 53723

Education and training

2003

PhD in Research Methodology of Social Sciences

University of Genoa - Genoa - IT

Academic experience

2011 - 2017

Lecturer of Sociology of Deviance and Social Control

University of Genoa - Genoa - IT

Research interests

She has worked on mechanisms of social control with a specific focus on youth and migrants, operational practices of public and private institutions in the field of deviance and social marginality, criminalization and government of individuals and their representation in media production. She has taken part in national and international research networks. Her research results have been published in monographs and journals, and presented in conferences of national and international relevance. She is now dealing with the overlapping mechanisms of control and care in the field of the Juvenile Court and the government of family, as well as on the construction of the judicial discourse on new terrorism.